French Premier Prepares To Make Reply To Mussolini

Daladier Will Reply To Italy On Wednesday

To Make Answer To Mussolini's Speech On Sunday At Rome

ALL OF FRANCE IS AWAITING EVENT

Increases In France's Navy Personnel Ordered By French Council

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 28.—Premier Edouard Daladier moved swiftly today to strengthen his diplomatic and military position in preparation for the reply he is scheduled to deliver tomorrow to Premier Mussolini's demands upon France.

As the long Italo-French quarrel over African and Mediterranean advantage points approached a climax, the French Ministerial Council, spurred to action by Daladier, ordered increases in the French navy's personnel to a virtual war-time level.

This was done, it was believed, to improve Daladier's bargaining position in future negotiations with Italy and to augment the already heavy war preparations under taken by France.

France Awaits Reply

Meanwhile, all France waited anxiously for Daladier's reply to the speech Mussolini made in Rome Sunday, outlining Italy's demands.

(Background Note: In his speech, Mussolini on Sunday confronted France with the three problems which solution he demands before the gap between France and Italy becomes unbridgeable: Free port rights in Djibouti, terminus of the Addis Ababa railway, a large share in control of the Suez Canal and legal protection of the rights of nationals in the French protectorate of Tunisia.)

As outlined by French Foreign Minister Bonnet, France is willing to negotiate peacefully with Italy on the questions of Tunisia, the Suez Canal and the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway—making concessions but not handing over any territorial gift.

Income Tax Decision Is Believed Forerunner Of More Precedent Breaking

WASHINGTON, March 28.—With a new era of "judicial liberalism" in full swing, congressional students of the supreme court today predicted that it will virtually rewrite the basic constitutional law of the land in the next few years.

The court, with three appointees of President Roosevelt participating, took another long step in its new path yesterday when it wiped out the implied constitutional immunity of federal employees from taxation by the states.

In doing this, the court affirmed Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that reciprocal taxation of salaries of state and federal employees is possible without a constitutional amendment. Many noted constitutional lawyers had insisted that an amendment was necessary.

Next Goal

The next goal of the New Deal in eliminating federal-state tax immunity, as accepted in the past, is reciprocal taxation of federal, state and local government bonds.

New Deal officials and legal experts, however, looked to the court for another historic decision in the field of utility valuation in the near future.

The court has pending before it a

British Government Seeks To Learn What U.S. Aid Is Probable

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, March 28.—The British government pushed forward today with diplomatic efforts to ascertain just what it could expect in moral and material aid from the United States supporting a firm British policy of resistance against totalitarian "aggression."

As the result of a sudden meeting of the cabinet foreign affairs committee, both prime minister Neville Chamberlain and foreign secretary Lord Halifax were expected to make statements in the house of lords and house of commons today, reporting on the status of the government's efforts to form an anti-totalitarian line-up.

Coal Contracts To Expire Friday

Operators And Miners Rush To Complete Satisfactory Negotiations Before Deadline

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 28.—Caucuses among the 16 bituminous coal mine operators who are seeking to negotiate a new labor contract for the industry today may again interrupt actual bargaining with officials of the United Mine Workers of America in New York.

The operators spent most of yesterday in conference either as a unit or in several small groups apparently attempting to solve inner disagreements so as to present a unified front to the miners.

They noted the fast approaching expiration of the current contract which will fall at midnight Friday but no move was made to provide for temporary extension of the present agreement in case the bargaining remains incomplete. However, a new contract may be signed as late as Sunday night without forcing a strike or lockout since the intervening days are both mine holidays.

PITTSBURGH, March 28.—Secretly returned to Pittsburgh to face retrial, Harold Martin Brest, 27-year-old Pennsylvania "lifer" who was released from Alcatraz on a technicality, was held incommunicado in the Allegheny county jail today while his attorney in San Francisco threatened a "sensational court action" over his unheralded removal.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 28.—Rushed eastward under a blanket of secrecy, Harold Martin Brest, notorious Pennsylvania kidnaper and bank robber who gained his freedom from Alcatraz prison recently on a technicality, was returned to Pittsburgh today to face retrial on multifarious charges.

Brest recently won a surprise habeas corpus case in San Francisco in which he contended he was not informed of his legal rights to the advice of counsel during his trial in Pittsburgh. Final papers in the action were signed Saturday by Federal Judge Harold Louderback, who presided in the case of the west coast.

Volant Bank Robber

Brest, formerly a Sharon, Pa. resident, was serving a life term on the "Rock" for the kidnaping of D. Lester Santos, Sharon salesman, in 1936. He also was sentenced to long terms in jail for robbing the Volant, Pa. bank twice.

Removal of the Pennsylvanian was so closely guarded that no knowledge of his transfer came to light until he was just a short distance away from Pittsburgh. Then, it was disclosed in San Francisco, he was enroute east in the custody of a deputy U. S. marshal and two guards.

In Pittsburgh, U. S. marshals confirmed the announcement but refused to divulge the exact time of

The legislature adopted the following resolution booming Garner's nomination next year:

"By repeated tests of legislative and administrative capacity and ability, John Nance Garner has fully and convincingly demonstrated his statesmanship and grasp of national affairs, and his ability has been recognized in every one of the other 47 states as well as in his own state."

Y.M.C.A. Workers Tonight Launch Drive For Members

A two-day membership campaign—with a goal of 800 members and $1,000 in cash—will be opened by nearly 140 volunteer workers of the New Castle Young Men's Christian Association at a dinner in the "Y" tonight at 6:15 o'clock.

The drive takes place annually. Tonight the team workers gather as two baseball teams—the Giants and the Yankees. They will compete as would two diamond teams, and endeavor to outscore each other in the competition.

Advance solicitation has been regarded as the first seven innings of the game and tonight's dinner and another Wednesday night will be considered the crucial eighth and ninth innings of play—what the teams score tonight and tomorrow night really determines who will win!

Wilkinson Heads Campaigners

Attorney H. A. Wilkinson, one-time "Y" president, is general chairman for this year's drive. His two chief assistants are the two team managers—City Controller Sid Lockley of the Yankees and Howard Warlock of the Giants.

General Secretary Robert L. Meermans and his entire staff will be present with the teams to steer the mechanics of the drive.

General Chairman Wilkinson will preside and present General Secretary Meermans during the evening. Other speakers are to be heard, too.

Tonight's meeting will take the form of a "kick off" dinner, while tomorrow night will bring the complete reports.

ARNOLD, Pa., March 28.—A "pony express" system of automobile thievery today left authorities definitely puzzled.

Four cars were stolen in four counties within a few hours by the same two men, according to Police Chief Frank Kratz. He said the men took a car in Washington, Pa., and drove it to New Castle, abandoned it and stole another, driving it to Ambridge, stole a third car and drove it to Arnold and there took the fourth.

Two of the cars were owned by E. R. Bollinger, of Ambridge, and H. B. Cornelius, of Arnold. The car stolen in New Castle was that of Dr. W. P. Feich.

Reich's Propaganda Directed At Warsaw

BERLIN, March 28.—Indications of a stiffening German attitude toward Poland on the Danzig issue abounded today as the Reich's thunderous propaganda machine was turned upon Warsaw.

Belief immediately arose that Chancellor Hitler may be preparing for a sudden showdown on the free city of Danzig and the Polish corridor.

In some well-informed quarters, however, the opinion was expressed that the current Polish-German "fireworks" constituted nothing more than a diplomatic maneuver.

Slovakian Artillery Bombards Hungarian Border Town Of Bunkos

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, March 28.—Slovakian artillery bombarded the Hungarian border town of Bunkos today in a new outbreak of fighting over the Slovak-Hungarian border dispute, it was reported in Budapest today.

Two houses were destroyed and one Hungarian soldier was killed, it was charged. A Hungarian artillery battery was silenced, the advocates stated.

Other reports stated that Slovak forces yesterday bombarded the town of Kiskoln, killing one soldier and seriously wounding another.

The renewed fighting broke out after a week end announcement of a truce pending negotiation of the frontier controversy.

Despite the reported Slovak attacks, the Hungarian press pleaded for a reconciliation with Slovaks.

Polish Troops Massed In Polish Corridor

(International News Service)

WARSAW, March 28.—Thousands of Polish troops were massed in the Polish corridor today amid growing Warsaw-Berlin tension.

Patriotic demonstrations took place throughout the nation—all directed against the spectre of "German aggression."

Newspapers were filled with resolution as virtually every sector of the population affirmed its determination to fight should Poland prove the next object of Nazi territorial ambition.

Mme. Piusdski, wife of the famous Polish military hero, urged women to be ready to join their menfolk in the trenches if need be.

Meanwhile the government promulgated vigorously measures to conserve essential supplies and placed the economic life of the nation on a war footing.

The intense activity apparently was the result of the German press campaign, accusing Poles in the corridor of beating up German women and children. On all sides fears were expressed that this might pre-empt a German move against Poland—and everywhere there was evident a determination to resist the blow if it should be struck.

District Attorney James A. Reilly said he had secured a signed statement from the boy to the effect that he and two others had entered the gas station, held up Davis, and then cursed and shot him when their total loot came to but one dollar. Davis died two days later in the Connellsville hospital.

Reilly said the two others named by Burd were missing. The service station was owned by Davis' brother and is located in Scottdale, Westmoreland county.

Agriculture Bill To Carry $250,000,000 For Parity Payments

FARM BLOC STAND BREAKS IMPASSE

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 28.—Big city delegations, which have been fighting a $250,000,000 appropriation for parity payments to farmers today capitulated thus clearing the path for passage of the record-breaking $1,067,000,000 Agriculture Department Supply Bill.
The decision to yield came after five days of intense effort by the metropolitan members to force the powerful house farm bloc into an agreement to support the $150,000,000 WPA request in exchange for urban backing for the unbudgeted parity payments.

Break Impasse
Steadfast refusal of farm bloc leaders to bow to the open log-rolling tactics of the New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia delegations was credited with breaking the impasse. Farm bloc spokesmen predicted the supply bill would pass late today with the parity payment funds intact and without any "trade" on the question of relief.
House administration leaders, backing the parity payment proposal, received part credit for ending the deadlock which caused the house to spend four days of debate on a bill which it annually passes in two.

Chairman Taylor, of the house appropriations committee, deliberately delayed a committee vote on the WPA appropriation scheduled for today, frankly asserting that he did not "wish to become party to the log-rolling" which began behind the scenes Wednesday, and finally was forced out into the open two days later.
The appropriations committee is threatening to reduce the $150,000,000 relief request. The city delegations have been striving to force a bargain which would guarantee approval of the $150,000,000 without any reduction, in return for their support for the $250,000,000 in parity payments.

Pennsylvania case in which the Federal Power Commission asked the court to uphold the original cost, or prudent investment, theory of valuing utilities for rate-making purposes. The principle laid down by the court, under present decisions, is that original cost, reproduction cost and other elements must be taken into consideration to arrive at "fair value." New Deal lawyers expect the court to overrule past precedents in the utility case.

Overrule Precedents
Within the past two years the court has overruled many cases that have stood as precedents for nearly a century. One of the most notable was the Erie Railroad case, in which the court, in a decision by Justice Brandeis, now retired, overturned a 97-year-old precedent, to bind federal courts to state court decisions on questions of general law.
With William O. Douglas expected to take his seat on the bench soon as Justice Brandeis' successor, the court will have among its members four appointees of President Roosevelt.

Add Justice Stone, long regarded as a liberal, to the list of Roosevelt appointees and a majority of the nine justices apparently will be committed to "judicial liberalism," observers said.

ability of making no anti-German commitments during his forthcoming visit to London. On the other hand, Britain is believed trying to fight him into a state of mind conducive to Anglo-French collaboration instead. The view is held in Berlin that this accounts for the prominence given by the British press to Germany's activities regarding Danzig.
"Unless somebody's foot slips," one observer said, "German-Polish relations should not enter upon a crisis at present."

Deny Reports

Reports of large-scale Polish military preparations brought no direct comment other than denials, but the inspired German press and official statements assumed a tone markedly similar to that used against Prague before the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.
Nazi press dispatches claimed that German women and children in the Polish corridor had been beaten for speaking their own language—and a semi-official pronouncement voiced the German government "amazement" at this.

Both the German and Polish governments persistently denied reports that they have been massing troops along their adjacent frontiers, but other advices indicated the Poles may have mobilized as many as 700,000 men.
A dispatch from Warsaw stated Soviet Union has also taken military precautions, strengthening red army garrisons and frontier guard stations along its borders adjoining Rumania, Estonia and Latvia to counter-act the German drive to the east.

on Germany such economic penalties as the 25 per cent tariff increases slapped upon Reich imports by the United States.

R. A. Butler, under secretary for foreign affairs also announced Britain will make no immediate move to enlist American cooperation in League of Nations sanctions against aggressors.

But while the British government shied from suggestions of an economic boycott against the Reich, the attitude of influential circles toward the United States was reflected in a speech by Alfred Duff Cooper, who resigned last autumn as first lord of the admiralty because of his opposition to the Munich pact.

Addressing the St. George's conservative association, Duff Cooper stated:

Need Proof Of Determination
"If we could give small countless proof of our determination, they would defend themselves if they thought they would get assistance. The sympathy of the United States in any possible conflict would be far greater than it was before and that sympathy would probably more rapidly bring her into active cooperation."

Meanwhile, Viscount Gort, chief of the British army's general staff, was to fly to Paris today to consult with the French general staff and inspect the Maginot line of fortifications. This was regarded as another evidence of the solidarity of the Anglo-French entente in the face of the Rome-Berlin axis.

It was learned that Lord Halifax, in a tax with United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, asked him to inquire of Washington whether the United States would give moral support to the proposed international declaration condemning aggression.

Purchase War Supplies Here?
Halifax also sought to learn through Kennedy whether Britain, upon adopting a sterner attitude toward the Reich, could be assured, under forthcoming revision of the neutrality act, of being able to purchase American war supplies such as airplanes on a "cash and carry" basis.

(Background note: In Washington the senate foreign relations committee is to begin hearings on the neutrality issue in the near future. President Roosevelt has already demanded outright repeal or drastic revision of the present American neutrality act in order that he may have broader powers, in the event of a European war to withhold supplies from the aggressor but permit the non-aggressor belligerent to obtain such supplies.)
Meanwhile, efforts are continuing to break down Polish reluctance to join Britain, France and Soviet Russia in a "stop Hitler" bloc.

Thousands of people—many of whom had grown accustomed to the Communist clenched fist—began using the Fascist salute.

Nationalist forces advanced on the center of the city from the west, meeting with but scant resistance from scattered groups of Republicans near Cuesta De Los Perdicies. Spokesmen for Franco's high command announced that formal occupation of the capital began at 5 p. m. (noon E.S.T.). The victorious troops will converge on the Puerta Del Sol, Madrid's principal square, from the north and south.

Julian Besteiro, minister of the interior in the short-lived Madrid defense junta, was the only responsible Republican leader remaining in the city. He stuck to his post at army headquarters, presumably to negotiate with the Nationalist commanders on their arrival.

As if by magic, thousands of Republican flags suddenly disappeared from the streets. By noon not one could be found.

Many Flee
Many thousands of Madrilenos, panic-stricken, jammed the exits of the city as they headed for the Mediterranean coast in hopes of finding a haven there.

But thousands upon thousands of others poured into the streets from their houses, demonstrating for Franco—the man whose warplanes and guns had kept them in fear of their lives for more than two years.

Shortly after noon, a large Fascist demonstration occurred in Cibeles Square where groups of Madrilenos paraded enthusiastically, shouting Franco slogans and gleefully giving each other the Fascist salute.

Madrid police took no action to curb the hilarious, half hysterical celebrations.

Along with the civilians, the streets were full of Republican soldiers who had thrown down their weapons and abandoned their trenches in the rupture that peace brought after war.

In more practical ways, too, the metamorphosis of Madrid from a bomb-scarred, beleaguered city to a capital released from conflict progressed swiftly.

Abandon Madrid Front
Shrewd store keepers, unwilling to risk a financial loss, refused all Republican bank notes. Only Fascist or foreign money was accepted.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the troops of General Jose Mija, chief of the Madrid junta, were abandoning the entire Madrid front.

Col. Segismundo Casado, chief of the defense forces, left Madrid general headquarters a short time before the capitulation was revealed. The defense junta gave in as Franco's mechanized troops were poised on the capital's outskirts, ready to strike final blow if any further hitch in peace negotiations impeded their victorious march into the city.

The final hours before the surrender was carried out marked a constant retreat of the "Republican" forces which had been facing Franco's legions.

But even in the face of defeat, Madrid remained calm.

BREST BROUGHT FROM ALCATRAZ TO PITTSBURGH

Brest's arrival. One marshal said they were "under strict orders not to say when he would get here."

In Allegheny Co. Jail

Brest. It was learned, will be placed in the Allegheny county jail and "special precautions" will be taken to guarantee his confinement. He will probably come up for retrial during the May term of court, it was understood.

Brest's companion in crime, James Logan, of Becks Run, Allegheny county, has filed a similar action in the San Francisco court in an effort to regain his freedom from Alcatraz. He received the same sentence as did Brest when both faced Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in

Canal Hearing Set For April 11

Federal authorities here expect Logan to be freed and he too, like Brest, will be re-arrested on the same technicality that brought him out of Alcatraz—that if he was not advised of his rights to counsel, then the court did not have proper jurisdiction in the case.

Brest, in gaining his release from the "Rock," set a legal precedent as the first prisoner to get off after his sentence.

Wisconsin authorities, after the Sharon man appeared headed for release from Alcatraz, also lodged a detainer against him with the federal court. He is wanted there for bank robbery. Several states in the Midwest also have him under indictment.

Just as bitterly, the A. F. of L. had insisted on hearings on amendments which it is sponsoring. The federation charged that the present labor board was "pro-C. I. O." and working with the C. I. O. for "destruction" of the A. F. of L.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELP YOUTH EVALUATE MOVIES

While visiting in an elementary school in Ogden, Utah, recently, I was met by a teacher in the hall outside her classroom. She informed me: "I don't agree with the movies. I was told at the public forum last night. Most who spoke seemed to think that nearly everything in the movies is bad for children of elementary school age. I believe they are a great means of good education."

"Then why didn't you say so at the forum? You know every one there can say what he likes."

"I was timid," she replied. She then invited me into her classroom and I listened while she asked her children to name some of the good things they liked and learned at the movies. After about a dozen responded individually, she asked them what they learned that was not good or that they didn't like. As many more replied.

What They Said

Being so impressed with what she was doing with these children, I asked her to have them write what they had said. Let me pass on a few of their statements. Most, often named among good things were that they learned good table manners, learned about things that have happened in this and other nations, learned to know great actors, heard good music and became acquainted with great singers, conductors, composers, learned to choose good music from bad, learned of the hardships of other people, learned how to make friends and how to pronounce words.

Among the bad or disliked things named were drinking, smoking and gambling; criminal shows that give children ideas that get them into trouble later; shows like Frankenstein, "that you wish you had never seen."

Reflections of Teacher

If you could look through these papers you would conclude that because of the narrow range of replies and their uniformity, the responses were, in part, reflections of the teacher. Excellent! These children had discussed these matters frequently before with the teacher. Since they so esteemed her, they believed they were stating good standards.

Now suppose every elementary teacher, every Sunday school teacher and every parent of parents would proceed in like fashion, especially with children from nine to 14. There could be no doubt about the results. Perhaps the teachers of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will in the future do most to cultivate in the younger child desirable tastes for pictures, with the result that more appropriate pictures will be made available for them.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOME WORDS

Mr. Johnson, who is alleged to have compiled the first English dictionary did a very creditable job but perhaps the teachers of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will in the future do most to cultivate in the younger child desirable tastes for pictures, with the result that more appropriate pictures will be made available for them.

Backset, n. A release, such as that suffered by prosperity when it becomes necessary to pay the bills for it.

Mine, adj. That which belongs to me, in the singular or bachelor number. When the plural is formed, Mine becomes Ours, according to grammarians. Actually, however, it becomes Hers.

Sniffle, v. 1. The disturbance created by a woman enjoying herself at a movie.

"It is wasteful to build more planes than are actually needed at the outset of any conceivable war because aeronautical science is advancing so rapidly that today's miracle is obsolete tomorrow."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:20. Sun rises tomorrow 5:49.

The average American, asserts an editorial, has more confidence in himself. Well, why not—after listening to all those radio quiz problems which in his own mind, he answers 100 per cent correctly.

Meanwhile, spring is going right ahead, just as though we weren't too busy with our talk of war to notice her budding beauty.

You can't blame governments. If you alone can save the country, and all opponents are wicked, you must do what is necessary to stay on top.

The tongue twister we promised: Bill had a bill board, Bill also had a board bill. The bill board bored bill, so Bill sold the bill board to pay his board bill. After Bill sold his board bill, the board bill no longer bored bill.

Paying a $100 fine in Portland, Ore. Dr. Fred E. Farrior, a dentist, apologized for parking too long. "I had moved sooner," he said. "If I hadn't worked so long on the teeth of the daughter of the patrolman who gave me the ticket."

The elderly Scot was still up when his son returned from a courting trip.

"Why are ye lookin' sae worrit?" asked the son.

"Just wondering how much the evening cost?" said the father.

"Just fifty cents," reported the boy.

"That was nae sae much," said the father, relieved.

"It was all the girl had," said young Donald, simply.

New York stock exchange rules are simple. If outsiders guess wrong, they must pay; if insiders get caught short, the outsider wasn't playing fair.

Machines may replace some labor, but they provide jobs, too. Think how many more men would be idle if there were no cars to shine up.

When a truck crashed into a ditch in Toledo, O., the truck load of 2,000 gallons of liquor flowed into a nearby creek. Next day two cows were dead after drinking from the water while seven other cows had severe hangovers.

"That selection was D flat," observed the piano student as she ran off the last notes and turned proudly around for praise.

"I thought it was, too, but I didn't like to use that language," observed the one who had been tortured by the rendition.

Wonderful man! After five thousand years of practice, he still wears shoes that hurt and cripple him.

Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said that he is willing to listen to advice in his new position. And there's just a chance that before he gets through with the job, he'll get plenty, too.

AN OPTIMIST

A little fellow of 5 years fell and cut his upper lip so badly that a doctor had to be summoned to sew up the wound.

The mother, in distress, could not refrain from saying:

"Oh, doctor, I fear it will leave a disfiguring scar."

Tommy looked up into her tearful face and said:

"Never mind, mamma, my mus-lache will cover it."

There are no snakes in the Hawaiian Islands, a news note informs us. They mean the kind which crawl on their stomachs.

A new cocktail, containing gelatin, doubles a man's strength according to scientists who have been testing the stuff. The very fact that a man would swallow the stuff proves his will power is also doubled.

A friend was relating one on a certain East Side woman, which he avers, left her with a very reddened face. Hearing a loud racket and talking in the front room, she yelled out to her young husband from an inner recess of the house, "Tommy, for goodness sake, turn off that loudspeaker. That woman's voice goes right through me."

"That isn't the loudspeaker, Maw!" came the reply. "It's Mrs. Brown come to see you."

A legislator in Arkansas wants to introduce painless bull fights. What's the matter with the one between "Croak" Carter, and "Wacky" Ickes.

States where racing is legal, took in almost ten million dollars as their percentage of wagers placed on race horse bets last year. Who says that Americans are pessimistic.

Football coaches as a rule are pretty pessimistic, but Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, has just bought a new home in South Bend, Ind. Looks like Elmer expects to settle down and stay there.

Nightmares last only a few seconds, according to a psychologist. That doesn't apply to the New York Yankees, and Hitler.

Correct this sentence: "We hated one another," said the heir, but we agreed to work together to keep the lawyers from getting everything."

Walking through his pumpkin patch, George S. Moser stumbled over a dead 400 pound black bear. Investigation showed the animal had gorged itself to death on pumpkins.

TRIAL AND ERROR

Maybe it's hardening of the mental arteries or something but it seems to us that most parents get a whole lot more kick out of shooting fireworks as kids than they get out of watching their own kids touch off the noisemakers.

Which reminds us that experience is something you can't hand down to the younger generation. They've got to get it for themselves.

Harvard professors assert that golf was played originally in Holland, and not Scotland. The dub who missed his drive probably furnished the idea for the windmills.

Reader's Question Answered

Dear Miss Markel—I don't go in for petting. All of my friends tell me that I am wrong. . . that I'll have few dates if I don't kiss the boy good night. Do you believe that is true?

SIXTEEN.

Answer—Do not cheapen yourself by allowing every Tom, Dick and Harry to kiss you and then tell all the other boys of their conquest. If you fall seriously in love with a boy, that is another matter. But do not be promiscuous and thus become the subject of gossip, for most boys do kiss and tell. The girl who permits herself to be "petted" will when she grows older, be ashamed of the experience. A clever, tactful girl will maintain the interest of worth-while boys without resorting to "petting." She will never find it necessary to pay for an evening's amusement in kisses.

Playing hooky isn't what it used to be in the days before cruiser cars were invented. Some cities have police patrols out looking for the youngsters and they are rounded up when they are quickly taken to the transient officer had to go out on foot after them. Someone is always taking the joy out of life, for the poor kiddies.

Kissing in public, which was formerly considered a misdemeanor in Mexico City, has been given the stamp of approval by the police department. Probably the police have just found out how nice it is.

A survey made by a small town California high school revealed that only one girl out of a hundred wanted to get married. The others wanted to get married, a couple of times when they apply for jobs in the movies, a lot of them will make marriage their career.

Among some 20 odd jobs, which will be open in Panama soon, will be that of canary inspector. Folks down in Panama probably won't be allowed to get "canary" with the canary inspector either.

Charlie Burrows says that a true music lover is the lad who, when hearing a beautiful feminine voice coming from a hotel room, puts his head to the keyhole.

"I've heard," said Uncle Eben, "bout a gentlemen's agreement and I've been wonderin' why religion and science can't make some suchlike arrangements."

We have sympathy with Sunday school teachers when they get boys like Willie Smith in their classes.

The teacher was telling the story of Sodom and Gomorrah and Lot's flight from the doomed dens of iniquity.

A messenger of the Lord warned Lot to take his wife and daughter and flee out of the city," the teacher began. "Lot took his wife and daughter and got away in safety. Now are there any questions you'd like to ask?"

"Yes, mam," said Willie. "I'd like to know what happened to the flea?"

To pay for his marriage license, a bridegroom in Elkhart, Ind., poured 40 nickels out of his pocket. "I just hit the jackpot on a slot machine," he said.

Argentine Aloof To Advances Maintains Cool Attitude On Union Is Unfriendly South American Land

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Recent developments in Europe have intensified Washington's desire to consolidate Pan-American sentiment on general principles, for one thing, but especially in opposition to totalitarian infiltration, political and economically, into our neighboring southern republics.

Under President Roosevelt's Secretary Hull and Undersecretary Welles auspices we have done pretty well. Admiral Leahy has helped materially by advocating a Yankee policy of permitting the construction of our fellow countries' naval craft in our shipyards. To several of them we also have loaned expert advisers, military, financial and otherwise. These relationships have done a lot toward making us better and better friends. Between Uncle Sam and Mexico there is a little friction over the latter realm's expropriation of our national oil, but it strikes no dangerous sparks.

Brazil likes us very much. President Vargas is our best booster south of the equator. He's a dictator but he's pro-Uncle Sam. Only a few weeks ago his government concluded a treaty with us which gives us the "inside" in his territory versus all Europe and Asia. And it counts. Brazil being a big enough tail to wag a deal of Latin American dog.

Generally speaking, the rest of the dog (discounting Yankee-Mexican disagreements as to oil) is willing enough to be wagged.

With One Exception

We're not particularly popular in Argentina.

When one of our northern globe-trotters visits the Argentine he's quite likely, upon his return home, to drop in on me, because I lived there for a number of years, and while there, he's apt to cross what's left of my trail.

Well, I hear from them why they disapprove of us.

The Argentine is a tremendous producer of meat and its by-products—cattle, pigs and sheep. And we have sanitary regulations which practically bar it out of the United States. The Argentines contend that their "critters" have no diseases justifying such exclusions. They regard them as maliciously discriminatory, which makes them exceedingly sore.

NEW CASTLE CHAPTER BANQUET-INSTALLATION

Another successful year was brought to a close for New Castle Chapter No. 105, Order of the Eastern Star on Monday evening, when Mrs. C. C. Headland, retiring worthy matron, ended her term of office. Miss Margaret Shaffer was installed as the new worthy matron of the chapter. Henry Jackson is worthy patron.

Pestivities were in progress in the afternoon, with business being given consideration in the lodge room of the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

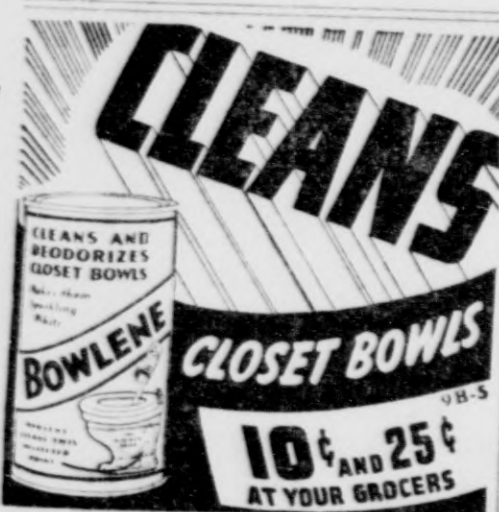

At 6:30 o'clock, the assemblage of nearly a hundred, adjourned to the dining room where a full course dinner was served, amidst a decorative setting that looked into a typical "Easter Bunny Land." The tables were centered with Spring flowers, and novel miniature Easter baskets were place favors. Large hand-tinted bunnies completed the arrangement.

The hours that ensued were spent in the chapter room, which too, was transformed into a Spring garden with an abundance of flowers, and images of bunnies. Palms and ferns intermingled with Easter lilies, provided an impressive setting for the initiation and installation ceremonies. Mrs. Margaret Wheldon was the installing officer, and she was assisted by Mrs. Jean R. Henley, district deputy grand matron of District 2-B.

The banquet and decorative committee appointed by Mrs. Headland, composed Mrs. Mary Buzard, Mrs. Marjorie Brinton, Mrs. Ada Jackson, Mrs. Gertrude Fink, Mrs. Ruth Bleakley and Miss Helen Clark.

Guests numbering several hundred who attended the evening ceremonies, represented Harrisburg, Mars, Parkersburg, Chicago, Pittsburg, Evans City and other surrounding places, as well as a splendid representation from the immediate vicinity.

The average man wants children. The more kids there are to correct in public, the less he'll get it.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

The latest entries into the plan, according to Oseroff, were the Community Hospital and the Kane Summit Hospital, both of Kane, Pa., and the Butler County Memorial hospital, Butler.

This association, adopted following enactment of enabling legislation at the last regular session of the Pennsylvania general assembly, has the endorsement of the Allegheny Medical Society, the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania and also the American Hospital Association, according to Oseroff.

Benny Leaving Case In Hands Of His Lawyers

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, March 28—Jack Benny, the noted radio comedian, is going to take the advice of his attorneys when his trial on charges of smuggling comes up in federal court in New York next week, he said today.

"My attorneys are in charge of the case," he said. "Whatever they tell me to do, I'll do. They have also told me to say nothing about the matter."

He did, however, deny reports that he was going to enter a nolo contendere—no defense—plea to the indictment which charges him with smuggling $231 worth of jewels into the United States from Europe.

Benny probably will leave next Monday for New York.

Precedent On Income Tax Is Swept Away

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, March 28.—Precedent of more than half-century was swept away Monday by the supreme court in a decision holding that states can levy income taxes on salaries of federal employees and officials.

The decision, in which the court split six to two, reiterated that the federal government can tax state and other public employees.

Thus, nearly 4,000,000 persons on the public payrolls, including members of congress, were brought within reach of the nation's income tax collectors.

The court's decision was hailed by the New Deal as an historic landmark in the transition of the highest tribunal to "judicial liberalism."

Immediate effect of the decision subjects 1,200,000 federal employees to the possibility of income taxation by states. It also reassures the federal government in its claim to the right to collect income tax from 2,600,000 state and local employees.

Census Report Shows Business 'Boom' Of 1937

By ARTHUR C. WIMER (Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—The year of 1937 brought a substantial industrial recovery in New Castle and Lawrence county as a whole, according to the biennial census of manufactures conducted last year by the Census Bureau.

The bureau covered manufacturing establishments with annual production valued at $5,000 or more. It did not include railroad repair shops or gas manufacturing plants.

The bureau found that in New Castle the number of manufacturing establishments with annual output valued at $5,000 or more declined from 40 in 1935 to 38 in 1937. Despite this decline in establishments, wage earners, wages, and the value of products of such New Castle establishments all increased in 1937.

Average number of wage earners employed increased from 5,854 in 1935 to 6,986 in 1937. Wages paid out climbed from $6,111,025 to $10,613,859, and the cost of materials, fuel, electric energy, etc., increased from $16,360,560 to $22,912,333. The value of products jumped from $28,497,674 to $40,594,418, and the value added by manufacture increased from $12,137,114 to $17,682,096.

In Lawrence county, the number of manufacturing establishments with output valued at $5,000 or more remained unchanged at 77 in 1937, the same as in 1935. However, increases in activities of these establishments were recorded by the Census Bureau as follows:

Wage earners employed, from 9,961 in 1935 to 12,230 in 1937. Wages paid, from $11,204,535 to $19,610,373. Cost of materials, fuel, electric energy, etc., from $24,403,786 to $37,576,664. Value of products, from $47,027,299 to $73,565,746. Value added by manufacture, from $22,623,513 to $35,989,082.

CURTAIN CHILD'S NORMAL ACTIVITY IF YOU WANT A NERVOUS CHILD

As we said yesterday, studying a child to find why he is nervous and upset and does things arbitrarily is often very difficult. Still one does occasionally run across a simple case where the misbehaviors clearly indicate what is in the child's mind. This is when the child strikes out directly at the thing which seems to be thwarting him, preventing him from doing what he wants to do.

On the other hand, the child may not feel capable of measuring up to what is expected of him. I remember one such case which came to my notice. The child definitely felt inadequate and he took refuge in silence and thumbsucking.

Often a child may feel uncertain, insecure. He just doesn't know what is going to happen to him. The reaction to this sort of thing is just about as varied as there are children. I have known children who felt at cross-purposes with the people around them and who, as a result, did everything they could to disturb people.

These are feelings that the average child can't put into words, so he translates them into feelings and actions which we are to understand him. Every child is different, and so we can't set up a book of rules that states that when a child is thwarted, or lacks self-confidence, or is upset because his parents quarrel, he will suck his thumb. Each parent must determine just what is the particular situation in the family that is at fault, or at least at variance with the child's feelings.

Sometimes a mother holds such a high standard for her child that he becomes discouraged. It may be that she wants him to be an example to other children, or she may feel that her child is better than her neighbors' and that her children should therefore have higher standards. Whatever the reason, such a high standard is held up for the child that he just can't reach it, and every day adds to the sting of being a failure.

I have seen children who, continually being told to be "Mother's little gentleman," suddenly give in to baby ways, just to relieve the strain. I have seen parents put too great a strain on a little girl's sense of responsibilities, so she reacts unfavorably in one way or another, according to her temperament.

Constantly urging a child to keep immaculately clean curtails the active play that is a normal, healthy outlet for a child's energy. Yet you have all known mothers who scold a little boy or girl each time they came into the house a little dirty from a normal, healthy child won't keep clean. He just can't be if he plays about as he should. If you keep him reasonably clean, that is all you can do. A little dirt on the clothes surely isn't a very serious thing, and yet it brings a scolding every time, it will have some effect on the child.

Cleanliness is next to godliness. I know, but many mothers carry it to extremes. Surely it is much better to have a normal child who gets a kick out of life than it is to have a clean child on him all the time.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

The bicycle is apparently here to stay. Many bicycle riders will not be here long.

About 800 bicycling children will be killed this year.

Bicycling is good, healthful fun. There should be no premium of death on it.

How can bicycle accidents be prevented?

Traffic experts, safety men and legislators are worried.

The only place for bicycling seems to be the city streets.

Therefore, the cyclist must compete with motorized traffic.

Ordinances have been passed to protect the bicyclist.

Caution cannot be legislated into the individual.

Joan Franchot Still Friendly

Joan Crawford Is Divorcing Franchot Tone, But Will Not Re-Marry She Says

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 28.—Joan Crawford of the movies saw nothing extraordinary today in the heavy round of dates for which she is booked with Franchot Tone whom she is divorcing under the friendliest of circumstances.

On the eve of the pending trial of her divorce suit in Los Angeles, Joan and Franchot have a date for dinner and the theatre. Tomorrow evening, by which time Joan may already have her anticipated divorce she is going to the theatre to watch Franchot perform in the play in which he is appearing.

No More Marriages

Nevertheless, Joan emphasized, she does not plan to marry again. "Fool me once, shame on you; fool me twice, shame on me," she explained.

Background note: Franchot was Joan's second husband. Her first, from whom she was divorced, was Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

All divorces should be friendly Joan explained, to obviate embarrassment should the principals later find themselves in each other's company. And so she has been writing Franchot a weekly letter which he answered by cross-country telephone.

As for Charlie Martin, the film director who squired her about Hollywood, Joan said:

"I'm not in love with him though you never can tell what love will do to you."

Harold Holt, Jr., Is Given Chance To Defeat Death

Pittsburgh Boy Suffering From Rare Tumor Disease Is Much Brighter

(International News Service)

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Mar. 28.—Little Harold Holt, Jr., doesn't know it but he is the prize exhibit of the radiology department at New Rochelle hospital today.

By medical standards, the two-year-old Monongahela, Pa., victim of the disease known as Wilms' tumor, is living on borrowed time for his death had been predicted for last week.

Now—and the doctors don't say if—Harold has responded to deep X-ray therapy treatment so well that hope based on something real has displaced despair based on what seemed to be certain.

Had Been Given Up

Harold had been given up when his case came to the attention of Dr. Alexander J. Chalka, director of radiology at the hospital. Dr. Chalka had twice in recent months defeated Wilms' tumor in children with his deep X-ray treatment and Harold's case provided a new challenge.

The doctor arranged, at his own expense, to have the boy and his mother brought from Pennsylvania by plane and the treatments were begun immediately.

Today, to a layman's eye, Harold looked considerably more alive than the wan youngster who was carried into the hospital so recently and the doctors—although they are not predicting anything—look considerably pleased at his reaction to the treatments.

Interest payments and dividends, however, continued to fall below those of a year ago, the department said.

Democratic Senators Refuse To Attend Governor's Luncheon

Claim 'Affront' To Colleague

Withdraw Acceptance Of Governor James' Invitation To Luncheon Today

SENATOR SIPE IS CAUSE OF MOVE

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 28.—The attempt of Gov. Arthur H. James to reach an amicable understanding with the Democratic minority in the senate today collapsed as Democratic senators refused to attend a luncheon tendered them by the governor.

In an unprecedented action, Democratic senators voted at a caucus to withdraw their acceptance of the governor's invitation to meet with him today and attempt to settle the inter-party quarrel which has held up confirmation of many of the governor's appointees.

Governor Rebuked
Through their spokesman, Sen. Harry Shapiro, minority floor leader, they publicly rebuked Governor James for what they termed as "affront" to one of their colleagues. Sen. C. Hale Sipe, Butler-Armstrong district, in refusing to admit him to a conference in the governor's office with farmers from Sipe's own district.

As Democratic support is necessary to provide the two-thirds vote needed for confirmation, it was expected that important gubernatorial nominations now before the senate would remain "pickled" in committee until the end of the session.

Among them are the 477 new appointees to the 67 county boards of public assistance, Maj. Lynn G. Adams for motor police commissioner, John Higgins for public utility commissioner and three members of the employment board for the public assistance department.

Many other important appointments which require confirmation still await the governor's action, among them the appointment of a chairman of the liquor control board, and another public utility commissioner.

Letter Is Read
When the senate reconvened after a week-end recess, Senator Shapiro read the following letter to the governor:

"The Democratic senators, in caucus this evening, have directed me to advise you that they must withdraw their acceptance of your invitation to meet with you at luncheon tomorrow.

"I am directed to inform you that

I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and my appetite increased. I gained strength and did not have nearly so much trouble with my stomach.' this action has been taken solely because of your refusal to admit to your office the gentleman from Armstrong, Sen. C. Hale Sipe, when he appeared with a group of his constituents to discuss matters vitally affecting his district and the commonwealth.

"This action, so inconsistent with what we originally believed a gesture of friendship toward the Democratic members of the senate, is an affront to one of our colleagues which the senators feel they cannot ignore."

Senator Sipe prefaced Shapiro's announcement with the assertion that he had three times been refused admittance to the governor's office.

Junior Red Cross Active In County

Members In Schools In City And County Working On Easter Projects Now

BUILD FUND FOR COMMUNITY WORK

Many groups of Junior Red Cross throughout the city schools as well as the county have been very active in the past few weeks preparing Easter projects and also getting ready for entertainments to build up the service fund of their school.

One Easter project that has been carried on by a number of the city schools was that of making covers for braided Easter cards. These cards go to the blind school in King of Prussia, Pa. The Lincoln-Garfield school made very attractive covers using cut-outs of velvet, powder puffs, and pipe stem cleaners.

For the raised figures, The Thaddeus Stevens school used an entirely different idea cutting their designs from colorful paper and pasting them on colored covers. Pollock school sent in their attractive covers as did also Aiken, Croton, and Oak street.

From Ellwood City, Fred McLure, Junior Red Cross chairman, received a very interesting report. The different schools in Ellwood City have started their service fund by conducting cookie sales, pop corn ball sales, establishing dues for their Red Cross and many other plans for raising money and have to this date furnished a number of pairs of glasses to students in their respective schools.

A very interesting program is being held in the North Side school of Ellwood City, under the sponsorship of Miss Jesse McDugall. On March 29 at 7:30, the entire school is joining in a benefit opera for the Junior Red Cross service fund. It is such activities as this that is bringing together the entire school population of Lawrence county and with the new chapter house giving over a room to the junior activities, a more interesting program is anticipated.

Teaching Motorists How To Drive In Philadelphia, Pa.

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—Pennsylvania motor police are teaching motorists in this area how to operate an automobile.

Under the supervision of Squadron Leader Major William J. Ruch, who heads 14 similar training points throughout the state, the project is operated in conjunction with the WPA safety school.

Regular classes are held three times daily in Fairmount Park, where the troopers have put thousands of prospective drivers through their paces. The only expense incurred by the applicant is for a license and cost of gasoline and oil during the two-week training period on the road. This totals $5.50.

Embryo drivers are given thorough classroom instruction in the obedience of traffic laws; what constitutes a violation; good judgement and an explanation of traffic signals.

This is followed by actual practice over highways similar to those found throughout the state. The entire training period takes one month.

Widow Faints On Witness Stand

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Pa., March 28.—Overcome by the strain of having to testify in connection with the murder of her husband, Mrs. George Boykas, Monday fainted on the witness stand while being questioned by prosecution attorneys.

She had just finished telling details of the time and setting of the argument at her home which ended only when Nick Boykas, 21, of Canonsburg, a cousin of Boykas, fatally wounded him last May 29. Nick had already entered a plea of guilty to murder generally and Judge Howard W. Hughes is to determine the degree of the crime.

During the morning state police testified that, in their opinion, telephone wires into the house had been cut before the shooting took place. The argument between the men apparently started over money matters, they claimed.

Sweeping Probe Of W.P.A. Favored

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 28.—A sweeping investigation of the WPA was voted by the house Monday.

After less than an hour's debate, it passed a resolution by Rep. E. E. Cox (D) Georgia, directing the appropriations committee of 39 members to conduct the inquiry.

Even conservative Democrats supported the measure, believing it might pave the way for complete revamping of federal relief policy.

The Gra-Y club has for its purpose the development of character

Gra-Y Movement Is Y.M.C.A. Answer To Boys' 'Gang Urge'

The part Gra-Y clubs play in the life of New Castle schoolboys is impressively told by Alvin H. Brown, Rose avenue school Gra-Y club leader, in a short article written in connection with the two-day membership drive of the Y. M. C. A. which opens tonight.

Brown writes:

The Gra-Y clubs are comparatively new to New Castle elementary schools, but they appear to have established a permanent place for themselves. This was made possible by the splendid cooperation given the clubs by the school administration, the staff of the Y. M. C. A. and the Exchange club of New Castle.

The boys in Gra-Y are at the age when the "gang urge" is developing. Boys will form gangs. These gangs may or may not be desirable if left entirely up to the boys. It is at this vital age that so many habits are formed. These habits may be good or bad. The Gra-Y club sets up the proper environment for the development of desirable habits and at the same time satisfies this urge within the boy, to belong to a gang.

At present, we are continually stressing the functions of a democracy. This organization has a written constitution and all meetings are conducted by the members according to parliamentary law. This gives each boy a feeling of responsibility.

Applicants for membership in the club are chosen by the club members.

The Gra-Y club has for its purpose the development of character as expressed in the Bible verse Luke 2:52 "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."

Many boys have been given opportunities by this organization to develop hidden talent, I am convinced any club that is of value to the individual pupil is of definite value to the school.

Is Your Name

Initials, Names Carved Into Big Rock In Slippery Rock.

Carved There?

There is possibility no more favorite "swimming hole" or place to fish than the Big Rock, sometimes referred to as MacMurray's rock, Slippery Rock creek, several miles beyond Harlansburg.

It was there many Lawrence county folk, perhaps now in their twilight years, spent pleasant hours and also many of the younger folk who yet go there to obtain a thrill from swimming or fishing.

The writer, who has done both there for the past 27 years, visited the Big Rock on Sunday and today asks: "Is your name (or initials) carved there?" because there are many names and initials chiseled into the sand rock.

Time, with its high water, has year after year, made inroads and some of the carving has been obliterated. However, there are visible yet many names and initials which one can see by visiting the rock.

Here are a few the observer read: Homer Weitz, 1919; Miriam Wool-cock, 1931; Eva (last name unpronounceable); Walter Leonhardt, Tully, Tackenberg, Ducky-Min, Aubrey Morrison, N. C. H. S., 1919; Frank Hamilton, 1925; Franny, Kate, Eleanor.

R. L. C.—John, R. S. G., N. C. H. S., '29; Bettie Davis (an S carved over the I), R. M. G. 1920, Bob, Dick Mills, C. Flynn-S. Mardis, Norman Allen, 1934 (his name was also carved in 1935); J. H. L. M. E., J. E. R. '35, Howe, Ken Garrett (or Barrett), Bud Gordon, Genkinger, Claire Fisher 1919, Wals Wilkison, John Offutt, Jack Brown, Thomas Richards, L. G. '31, H. D. B. 1919, Duff.

Bill Offutt, 1925; James D. Hagan, 1919; J. H. N. C. H. S., 1924; R. S. G.-J. L. R. Marty Mueh. And there is a lot of first or "nick" names carved beneath each other, as follows:

Harry, Dave, Duke, Jack, Ben, Dot, Kay, Izzy, Jan and date, 1931; Bill Cleland, Bob.

No doubt there were many more names carved in the huge sand rock from which persons for a long time have either fished or swam. There are additional but undecipherable prints.

No doubt those who carved their names upon the rock will lapse back to memories of former days.

Seek Social Security Act Revision To Help Small Business Man

By ROBERT A. MCGILL
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Additional revision of the social security act to help the small business man was proposed today as congressional leaders hailed modification of its tax schedule as a definite step toward business appeasement.

Senator Byrnes (D) of South Carolina, chairman of the senate unemployment and relief committee, said he was drafting the proposals to aid "the little fellow." They include provisions which would ease administration of social security taxes, eliminate confusion over tax schedules and provide for refund of penalties in some instances.

"Such a program," Byrnes said, "would go hand in hand with the proposed revision of the social security act regarding changes in the social security taxes."

Much Confusion

There is much confusion on the part of all businessmen, Byrnes added, as to "who is subject to taxes and who isn't." He said he would change regulations to simplify collection of the social security taxes and would make refunds from the treasury to those who have "innocently" violated complicated forms and regulations.

Byrnes, meanwhile, joined other congressional fiscal experts in approving administration proposal to place the social security program on a pay-as-you-go basis, as the probability of reduction of general corporate taxes faded into the background.

As the business appeasement and economy blocks on Capitol Hill jockeyed back and forth with the administration, it was generally understood that President Roosevelt will stand on revision of the social security tax schedule as a substantial aid to business stimulation. Although there was still a possibility that the corporate tax structure may be revised to simplify the tax burden, there was general agreement among congressional leaders that the nation cannot at this time risk a reduction in tax revenue.

See Some Action

Opinion that it would jeopardize the economic structure to reduce tax revenue at this time is shared alike by President Roosevelt and Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee, and Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

Senate and house leaders, meanwhile, predicted speedy approval of revision of the tax schedule of the social security program as an aid to business. Proposed by Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, and long urged by leading congressional Republicans and Democrats, it would hold for the time being the proposed reserve fund of $47,000,000,000 by 1980 to approximately $3,000,000,000 for several years. Also, it would maintain, until 1943, the one percent employer tax under the old age security program.

Benny May Plead Nolo Contendere

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 28.—Lloyd K. Wright, Los Angeles attorney for Jack Benny, radio and screen comic awaiting trial on a federal smuggling indictment, arrived from the coast today coincident with reports that Benny would substitute a plea of nolo contendere—"no defense"—for his formal not guilty claim now on the records.

The Journal-American said that if the government declines to accept the nolo contendere plea, Benny will plead guilty. Benny is charged with smuggling $2,131 worth of jewelry into the country through the intermediate efforts of Albert N. Chaperau who posed as an attaché of the Nicaraguan government.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

HARRISBURG, March 28.—Before and after his election, Gov. Arthur H. James expressed himself as favoring a greater decentralization of authority by the state government. . . . Home rule, he said, should be extended.

Now, however, Governor James has made it clear that his sympathy for home rule does not mean that he favors loosening control of the state's purse strings to local authorities. . . . "I stressed during the campaign and I still hold," he explained, "that there should be more home rule. But at the same time I feel that there should be a certain amount of control over funds expended by us."

The governor's expression came in the course of a question concerning his views on a proposal now before the House to give local authorities greater control over road building. . . . the Gillette-Fliss bill is meeting opposition from the State Highway Department and evidently a certain amount from the administration itself.

During the first days of the James administration there were reports that Governor James planned to reorganize the Department of Mines and make it a bureau under the Department of Labor and Industry. . . . It appears now that the report was unfounded. . . . Governor James said he did not contemplate such a change.

The Geltz bill to force all aliens in Pennsylvania, except those who have taken out first citizenship papers, to register with the Department of Labor and Industry and pay an annual fee of $5, is arousing great interest. . . . It has already passed the Senate and is now before the House. . . . There seems to be considerable sentiment for the bill, the prevailing argument being that any person who was in this country long enough to become a citizen and neglected to do so should not object to registering. . . . Others, however, who oppose the bill, say there is no need for such a stiff fee. . . . they also point to aliens who have not been here sufficiently long to enable them to take out citizenship papers. . . . These aliens, they say, should not be penalized. . . . Doubts were also raised as to the bill's constitutionality.

E. Arthur Sweeney, secretary of welfare, reveals that railroad employees are voluntarily making efforts to induce shippers and receivers to use railroads instead of public trucks. . . . The men work on their days off without pay.

It's now the season when Sheriff M. M. Ingham begins thinking of the great outdoors, with particular reference to 1800 apple trees he has in his orchard. Like other fruit growers he is hoping this unseasonably warm weather doesn't continue for a while and then have a cold spell hit.

Cherry and peach buds are swelling and with warm weather will come along fast. Apple buds are beginning to show but they are not as far advanced as the cherries and peaches.

Since her acquittal on a charge of murder, Miss Angeline Maravola of Hillsville has been deluged with a flood of mail. Three of the letters contained proposals of marriage, one contained a check for a dollar to pay telephone charges to the young man up in New York state, and the balance of the letters for the most part are congratulatory in tone.

After two years of dickering and bickering with the Mahoning county authorities, the county commissioners have succeeded in getting a family accepted by the Mahoning county people and they will be moved some day this week.

Four years ago the family came to New Castle from Youngstown. They had been on relief in Youngstown and went on relief here immediately. Later the father and one of the sons ran afoul of the law and are now in the penitentiary. Under the rules, no person on relief can establish a residence in another community as long as he accepts relief.

Patience is ceasing to be a virtue with the commissioners over the delay in getting the money allocated for the remodeling of the Boyles home next to the court house. The project was approved months ago and the WPA officials in Harrisburg or Washington have been holding it ever since.

Unless some action is taken within the next two or three weeks the commissioners may decide to do the work with private labor. Every month the job is held up costs the county about $200 in rentals which they will not have to pay once the Boyles property is ready.

Norman Dilley, examiner for the Public Utility Commission, held hearings today on the applications of a number of truckers for permits to operate.

O. B. Metz was listed for an initial hearing for a permit to operate as a contract carrier from Hillsville to points in Pennsylvania.

Glady's M. Rush was listed for an initial hearing on her application to haul creamery products from New Castle to points within a radius of 200 miles.

Others scheduled for hearings were R. J. McCartney, for license to haul from Ellwood City to points in Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties; Robert Hilton, a license to haul in Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver, Butler and Forest counties; P. W. Keely, a license to haul between New Castle and Titusville.

Mike Dick, license to haul farm supplies in Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver, Butler and Allegheny counties; Emma F. Maxwell and James P. Gibson, license to haul coal, sand, building supplies and other materials; Arthur Graziani, amendment to his certificate of public convenience.

Forum Lecturer Is Heard By Rotarians

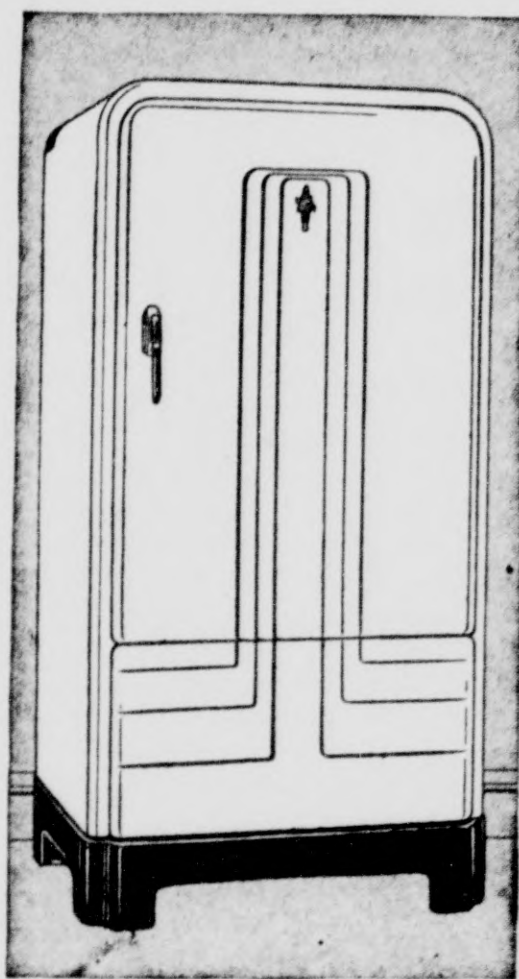

Chicago Organization Speaker
Guest At Club's Weekly Luncheon

Declaring that "economic constipation" overtakes any nation that fails to properly assimilate distribute or digest that which it produces Joel B. Guin, Seattle, speaking under the auspices of The National Forum of Chicago, told New Castle Rotarians yesterday that the United States must put her idle capital to work.

He called that "the American way out of the present economic crisis." His topic was "Our Economic Crisis—The American Way Out." "Capital," the speaker asserted, "is accumulated wealth to produce more economic wealth. And when it ceases to be productive of economic wealth, economic illness—economic constipation we'll say—develops." Guin, questioned at the close as to the objectives of his organization, described it as "a non-partisan and non-profit organization, democratically and privately managed, existing for the sole purpose of promoting impartial study of the most vital social issues of the times."

Guin left after the Rotary meeting to speak before students of South high school in Youngstown. You can swim in Jamaican waters in mid-winter, as the average temperature of the water in Doctor's Cave, Montego bay, is 80 degrees during the cold months.

Direct Relief Rolls Show Some Decrease In State

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, March 28.—Pennsylvania's direct relief rolls for the week ended March 18 continued to show a reduction in the number of cases, Public Assistance Secretary Howard L. Russell declared today. A net reduction of 1757 cases, representing 6904 persons, was described by Russell as a larger decline than in any week since last November. There were also fewer applications for relief.

For the second straight week, the decline in cases became more pronounced, with private industry receiving credit for relieving the commonwealth of 109 cases. The WPA was credited by assistance authorities with having taken 1088 more cases off the relief rolls than it gave to them. The way was paved for relievers to gain employment with the WPA by the department of project workers for private employment, it was reported. Slight increases in relief load were reported in Dauphin, Lebanon, York and Adams counties, among others.

Sons Of Legion Interested In Model Airplanes

Talk And Display Shown By Charles Robert Crawford Is Most Enjoyed

ELLWOOD CITY, March 28.—At a meeting of the Sons of the American Legion held last evening in the Sixth street Legion hall attended by forty-three members and four fathers, initial plans were formulated for a Beaver and Lawrence county Sons of Legion picnic to be held on Saturday, September 2, at Ewing Park.

A committee was appointed to purchase a 16 m. moving picture projector for the squadron rooms. J. Ellis Bell was scheduled as the evening's speaker but owing to illness was unable to attend. J. J. McLaughlin took his place and gave a stirring talk on Americanism.

Climaxing the most enjoyable meeting was an interesting talk and display by Charles Robert Crawford, whose hobby is scale model airplanes. He displayed 12 model planes, eight being of the military type used by the different countries and four being the commercial type including a clipper model similar to the one that has completed a successful crossing of the ocean.

The display and informative talk held the complete attention of the group.

To conclude the affair, a group of the boys served a delicious lunch.

For the next meeting on Monday evening, April 10, wild life moving pictures will be shown.

Little Bits Of This And That About Ellwood

Many local football enthusiasts and others regret to learn of the death of Wilbert P. "Rusty" Lomond, who for thirteen years was head coach at Midland high school.

During the thirteen years he was at Midland, he attained fine success and although he had a small squad to work with he produced many outstanding teams that forced strong AA schools into the back seat. Last fall, he accepted a position as head coach of Clairton high school and in his first season there had the good fortune to win nine games and lost only one.

A car belonging to Ira Bham of Zelienople, which was recently stolen from a garage in First street, while Mr. Bham was working at the National Tube company, has been found by the Allegheny police in that city. Various accessories had been taken from the car, but there was no other apparent damage.

The second week of classes in the firemen's school of instruction began last evening at the local fire station in Sixth street, and proved to be just as successful and worthwhile as the first week. Each of the seven departments in this district was represented, and Captain T. P. Sloan of Pittsburgh instructed the class in the use of chemicals. The other class will convene on Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Y. P. Presidents Are Entertained At New Brighton

ELLWOOD CITY, March 28.—Last evening the executive committee of Beaver Valley Presbyterian Y. P. C. U. societies held a delightful party at the New Brighton United Presbyterian church for newly elected and retiring presidents and ministers and their wives. With 85 in attendance, the first part of the evening was devoted to a variety of amusing games and contests, directed by Jimmy Van Gorder of this city. The "Flying Hutchinsons" Take To Air For Hop To 68 Countries

The "Flying Hutchinson Family" of Forest Hills, N. Y., have again taken to the air for a goodwill tour of sixty-eight countries.

They will cover 49,545 miles, including Canada, Bermuda, British West Africa and Japan in their air jaunt, which is scheduled to bring them back to New York and Roosevelt Field in about four months.

The "Flying Hutchinsons," as they are known everywhere, consist of Lieut.-Col. George R. Hutchinson, his wife, Blanche, and their two daughters, Kathryn, 16, and Jeanette, 13.

The family broke into the news many years ago when the wealthy Hutchinsons, in a Sikorsky amphibian, began touring the world by air, accompanied by his wife and children. Children's aid societies demanded then that he leave the children at home when crossing the ocean because of their youth.

Aboard the plane for the present tour is a veteran airlines pilot and a navigator, who will aid in flying the twin-motored, all-metal ship around the world. The plane is appropriately named America, Latin for friendship.

Planned Death Of Self And Wife, But Two Others Died

Albert Wojehick, 32, Highway Worker, Stricken With Remorse In Jail Cell

PLANTED BOTTLE OF POISONED LIQUOR

(International News Service)
KEENE, N. H. March 28.—Stricken with remorse for the tragic blunder which sent two innocent persons to their death, Albert Wojehick wept and cursed himself in a jail cell Monday, a suicide guard at his door, as funeral services were held for Edgar Smart and Mrs. Julia Wheaton who drank a poison draught Wojehick had intended for his wife and himself.

White-faced and still nervous at her own escape, Mrs. Wojehick confirmed her estranged husband's story of the poison plot that went wrong.

Dumps Liquor Out

A week ago they had tried reconciliation after a long separation but there was no basis of understanding and they parted—Wojehick offering his wife a farewell drink as they sat in his parked car. She tasted it, noted that the taste was peculiar and spilled the drink out the car window.

Then both were invited to a party last Friday night at the home of Smart—brother-in-law of Wojehick. Again, the 32-year-old highway worker conceived the idea of doing away with himself and his wife—this he admits, according to County Solicitor John R. Goodnow.

He "planted" a bottle of liquor, poisoned with a powerful chemical taken from a highway department supplies chest, at the party. It was his idea that he would pour a special drink for his wife and himself from the bottle.

Finds Bottle

But Smart found the bottle while the Wojehicks sat outside in their car, again discussing reconciliation. Mrs. Wheaton, attractive matron who lived next door, got the first drink.

"This tastes like poison," she pronounced after a first sip. Smart took the glass and tasted.

Without a word he carried the bottle outdoors and smashed it on a rock.

In an hour both were dead at Keene Hospital to which they had been brought after collapsing at the party.

Wojehick today recited a story of love which failed to materialize. Married three years ago to a girl who at 16 was 13 years his junior he found that their interests widened rather than grew closer. Eventually they separated.

Planned Deaths

"I made up my mind that if I couldn't have her, no one else would have her," he said in confessing his part in the double deaths. "I didn't mean to hurt anyone else. If my plan had gone through, Lois and I would be dead and not the others."

A pitiful sight as he paced back and forth in his cell or threw himself on the bunk, Wojehick at intervals covered his eyes and screamed to his guards:

"I see their bodies—they're driving me mad!"

Because of his mental reaction to the tragedy, the jailed man was kept under continuous watch by police assigned to stand guard outside his cell.

News Oddities

TRIVIALITY TO HIM

William Sibbitt is an eighty-six year old farmer of Frankford, Ind., who apparently cares little about a broken leg. He attended a basketball game, cheered and fell from his seat. He pulled himself back into his seat and continued to cheer until the game concluded. Then he discovered he had fractured a leg when he fell.

FRYIN' PAN INTO FIRE

Joe Fenton, New York City motorist, was tired so he steered his car to the side of a lonely highway near Scranton. He fell asleep. When he awoke he was cut and bruised. Fenton and his car were 40 feet from his parking place. He had parked on a railroad track and a locomotive had struck his car.

FULFILLS HIS PLEDGE

Alabama State Representative Hilliard Carville told his fellow citizens that if he was elected he would journey from Clay county to Montgomery by covered-wagon. A few days ago a vehicle drawn by two oxen meandered up to the capitol's steps. Carville then sold the vehicle and oxen and gave the proceeds to charity.

FEAR CAUSES DEATH

Victoria Marsden, Liverpool, Eng., had read where a supposed lunatic ran at large slashing girls. Enroute home at night recently, she thought a man was following her. She ran to her home and dropped dead on the door-step. The man proved to be a neighbor who had strolled out to buy some tobacco.
